American-British Debt Negotiations At Halt

English Commissioners to Confer in London Before Further Decision —Trouble Over Interest and Time Limit

WHOLE INVESTIGATION MAY GO OVER TILL NEXT YEAR

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—British and American debt commissions have reached a point in negotiations where it is virtually agreed that no further progress can be made until British commissioners returned to London and conferred with their government. They will leave Saturday for home. It is understood they cannot agree on the interest rate and time limit.

The American debt commission frankly told the British commission today that it could not assent to any plan of settlement of Great Britain's war debt to the United States which could not be expected to receive the approval of congress at this session. If this congress fails to ratify any agreement that might be entered into, the whole question will have to go over until next year.

HARDING SUFFERS FROM GRIP ATTACK

Stays in Bed Today and Cancels All Engagements—No Serious Complications

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Harding cancelled all engagements today in order to remain in bed on account of an attack of grip. It was said at the White House that the day of rest was decided on merely as a precautionary measure. The president's condition showed no serious developments.

Brigadier General Sawyer, White House physician, described the president's ailment as a slight attack of grip, such as everybody else is having around town. The president has a little fever intermittently.

Mrs. John Peeler, of Knoxville, was the guest between trains today of Mrs. H. H. Tinsley. Mrs. Peeler has been visiting Mrs. F. C Burton in Barbourville.

ARTICLE ON L. M. U. IN PICTORIAL REVIEW IS WIDELY DISCUSSED

"The Living Memorial To Abraham Lincoln," an article by Mrs Clyde Clark which appears in the current number of Pictorial Review, is being widely read and discussed in this vicinity, because the subject of the article is Lincoln Memorial University. The story of the school is beautifully, though perhaps colorfully, written, and will undoubtedly serve to bring this wonderful mountain school before the public's eyes in a way that has not been done before.

Mrs. Clark, it will be remembered, and Calton Moorepark, the artist who illustrated the story, visited this section last spring. They spent several days in Harrogate at the school and were also guests in Middlesboro. Mrs. Clark made an address at the Manring Theatre while she was here.

GIBSON PREACHES FORCEFUL SERMON

Tells How Men Overcome Difficulties in Coming to the Christ

The case of Zaccheus who climbed a tree in order that he might see the Saviour as he passed below, was cited by Rev Finley F. Gibson at the First Baptist revival last night as an instance where a man overcome great dicculties to come to Christ.

It is the same way with men today, declared the minister. Where men have a great desire to come to Christ all barriers will be swept aside and they will eventually win that which they are seeking.

A large crowd was present at the service. The sermons of Rev. Gibson are vibrant with truth and frankness and their effect is never lost on members of the congregation. Six additions were made to the church membership as a result of the service last night.

The music service conducted by Fred Scholfield was, as usual, greatly enjoyed. Those who like good choir music and who wish to hear the scriptures interpreted in an able and forceful manner would do well to attend these revival services.

EXCITEMENT IN COURT WHEN LAWYER ANGERS DEFENDANT

PINEVILLE, Jan. 17.—In the suit of S. W. Daniels against D. M. Bingham on a writ of forcible detainer, the spectators in the court room Tuesday were afforded a little excitement when the defendant became angry at Judge W. W. Points, attorney for the plaintiff, while Bingham was being questioned in the witness chair. Bingham, resenting the questioning, attempted to strike Judge Points and started to pick up the chair as a weapon, but was restrained. He was fined $10 for contempt of court.

The case, which was orginally tried in the county court and a verdict for the plaintiff found, had been appealed to the circuit court by the defendant, where a jury again found for the plaintiff. The suit was filed on the charge that Bingham was forcibly occupying a house owned by Daniels, after Daniels had ordered him to move. The jury gave judgement to Daniels.

LARGE CROWD HEAR THOMAS LAST NIGHT

Evangelist Tells of Prayer and Its Results—Great Earnestness Touches Audience

PROGRAM FOR WEDNESDAY

7:15; Fellowship meeting and conference for men in Sunday school room. 7:30, Song Service led by Rev C. L. Nisbet for fifteen minutes, with solo and prayer.

7:45, Sermon by Dr. Trigg Thomas, 'Marked Special' Members of I. O O F. will be guests and occupy center seats.

Taking "Prayer And Its Results," as his theme, Dr. Trigg Thomas, preached one of the most effective and heart searching sermons ever heard in Middlesboro, at the First Presbyterian church, Tuesday night.

The church was nearly filled, and for the second night of the revival it was considered more than satisfactory. Scores were present for the fust time, and they went away feeling and thinking deeply. Tears were in the eyes of more than one of his audience as the preacher effectively told some incident that reached the heart, along lines of answers to prayer. Dr. Thomas is a rapid fire speaker, even more so than Dr. Gray, but his congregation had no trouble in following him, and even the children hung on to every word as though spell bound. People from all the other churches in the city were present, for the campaign is not for the Presbyterians alone, but is city wide and Dr. Thomas by his unique methods hopes to reach every person in the city before the meetings close.

One delightful feature of the services is the singing of the large choir of voices and the solo work of Mr. Nisbet. Not only does the choir sing but the congregation sings as well. The hymns are old and familiar and 200 new gospel songs have been purchased for these meetings.

Take Drastic Steps To Combat Liquor Traffic

Revocation of Scores Liquor Permis Ordered—Government to Bottle Liquors and Hold in Bond

NEW YORK WAGES FIGHT ON POISONOUS LIQUOR

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Drastic curtailment of dealings in industrial sale is the next step in the campaign to combat the illicit liquor traffic. Orders were issued for revocation of scores of dealer's permits, including one of the largest alcoholic producing plants in the country.

By Associated Press

NEWYORK, Jan. 17.—To protect the public from poisonous whiskey bought at drug stores on prescripons, the government has decided to bottle all bulk liquors now held in bond and guarantee them as to proof and quality.

This announcement was made by Frank Bowers, Internal Revenue Collector for the second district of New York upon receipt of orders from commissioner Blair at Washington. He said, "so many people are poisoned by liquor obtained at drug stores on doctor's prescriptions that commissioner Blair has decided it is time to take steps for their safety."

SECRET MARRIAGE HERE THANKSGIVING REVEALED YESTERDAY

Discovery of the marriage of Miss Earle Welburn of Corbin o Barlow Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Stanley of Middlesboro, in Cumberland Gap last Thanksgiving Day was made here last night.

The facts in the case came out in an effort of the girl's parents to prevent the wedding which they thought was to take place yesterday.

Mrs. Welburne was at a club meeting in Corbin yesterday when some one told her that her daughter and Mr. Stanley had eloped. The mother, believing that the couple were on their way to Cumberland Gap, called her friend, Mrs. J. J. Lee, in Middlesboro and asked her to stop them Mrs. Lee in turn called R. L. Maddox and Stanly Berry, lawyers, and they secured a warrant for the girl's arrest and went to the train. When the young couple alighted they were stopped but they protested that they had been married Thanksgiving Day when Miss Welburn was visiting here. To prove the fact Stanley went home and got the wedding certificate. There was, then, nothing more to say.

The young bride then called her parents and explained how things really were. She was duly forgiven and she and her husband went back to Corbin last night. The only reason for opposing the marriage was the fact that Mrs. Stanley is but just 17 and an only child.

NOT TO OPEN LIBRARY NIGHTS UNLESS ATTENDANCE BETTER

Announcement has been made by he library committee that unless attendance at night at the library is better in the next two weeks, it will not be kept open at night after Feb 1. It was decided last fall to open the library at night so that persons who work during the day might have a chance to come there and read the periodicals or get books. The response to this has, however, been so slight that the library committee believes that the money it costs to keep open at night can be spent to better advantage in buying more books.

TO SUBMIT EAST END SPECIFICATIONS

First Step in Street Construction Soon —to Build in Conjunction With State

Specifications for the work of paving Cumberland avenue in the East End will be made by the city engineer and submitted to the state highway commission for approval soon, according to Mayor J. H Keeney. The construction work will be done by the city in conjunction with the state commission, the former paying two-thirds of the expense and the state the remainder.

"The city has been waiting for the state to make the estimates," said the mayor "and it is really not our place to make them. But we are very anxious to get the work done and are thus making the initiative."

After the specifications are made they must be submitted to the state highway commission for approval. After they are approved, bids will be accepted for the work. These must also be approved by the commission. After this is done, contracts will be let.

The state highway commission, the city of Middlesboro, and the public are still anxious to get the work done. The road is a part of the Dixie Highway finishing an outlet from this section into Tennessee and Virginia. It will be paved with asphalt.

A THOUGHT

These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world you shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.—John 16:33.

Truth forever on the scaffold, wrong
forever on the throne;
Yet that scaffold sways the future,
and within the dark unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above his own.
—James Russell Lowell.

GOOD INVESTMENT

Hoping to get a good tip, you study rich men, with the idea in mind that their system can be copied. You ask how certain rich men got their start. In nine out of ten cases, the answer is: "Oh, he made a good investment in so-and-so."

Now, to make a good investment, it is an absolute certainty that he had to have some money to invest.

A few of us inherit money. A few have it come almost in gift form, through the influence of powerful friends who like us. But the great rank and file of people reach financia independence only by a slow and painful start.

The good investment comes, once you have saved the money to put into the investment. Thrift is a powerful servant. We all know this. But the brain tends to forget constant truths. So occasionally it's a good thing to jolt ourselves into a fresh realization, by concentrating on a subject like thrift.

That's the value of Thrift Week. It starts January 17, anniversary of the birth of wise old Benjamin Franklin.

About one American in four has a savings bank account. And the average savings depositor has from $200 to $250 in the bank. Are you above or below the average?

Work for money. Then interest will make money for you. For most of us, thrift is our only road to financial independence.

LET THE BANKS BE YOUR FRIEND

Today the whole nation is giving more thought to the value of banking institutions. This is quite well, because the masses of people do not realize the importance of banks in business and industry, and to individual prosperity. Too many people feel that banks exist for the purpose of enriching the stockholders or of getting huge sums of money from the general public.

This mistaken idea must be corrected. Banks are institutions composed of a group of men whose purpose it is to benefit their customers, and, in turn, to enjoy the natural and earned reward of moderate dividends. Practically all business is conducted on credit, and it is only through banks that credit is maintained with safety. The sane, careful, and practical consideration by the banks of all business enterprises, and the extension of help and credit is the only method of assuring business stability and ultimate financial success.

Middlesboro is particularly fortunate in having two enterprising banks headed by men of practical business experience and with a ready spirit of helpfulness. This attitude of service on the part of both banks accounts largely for their rapid growth in the last few years. The people of this region should be ready and willing to entrust their personal business affairs to the confidence of these men, because they may be sure of practical assistance whenever they need it.

Let the banks of Middlesboro be your friend. If you have not already established a connection with one of these banks, do so at once, because it will ultimately mean prosperity. Drop in to see the officers often, talk over with them your personal business problems, benefit from their experience, adopt their methods of sane business practices, avail yourself of their many plans of saving and thrift.

Your reward will be early financial independence.

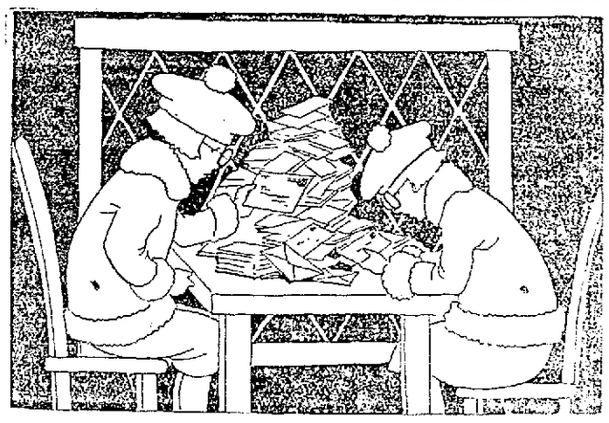
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton



The postoffice was in an old hickory tree. There were places to drop in letters and packages on one side, and on the other side were little square boxes marked with people's names.

If Mr. Rabbit dropped a post card to Mr. Cottontail to meet him by the garden, why then Mr. Stamps the fairy postmaster, put the card in the box with Mr. Cottontail's name on it. That is if he didn't make a mistake and put it in Mr. Fox's box.

Nancy and Nick came to the hickory tree postoffice to assist Mr. Stamps with his mail because he had so much trouble with it and needed help.

"Now, then!" said Nick. "What can we do first, sir?"

"Let's see!" said fussy little Mr. Stamps. "Oh, I know. Look over this pile of old letters. They are the ones that haven't been called for, or the ones whose addresses I cannot read, and see if you can do anything with them. Did you get the magic glasses?"

"Yes," answered Nancy, fishing in her pocket. "The Green Wizard was extra kind and gave us each a pair."

She hooked hers behind her ears and Nick hooked his on behind his ears, and then they started to work.

"Say!" called Mr. Stamps, "if you find any letters you can make out, spose'n you deliver them for me, will you? My letter man, Mr. Long Stride, has the rheumatism and won't be back for weeks 'n' weeks."

"Oh, yes, we'll do all we can to help," said Nick, "but didn't you say that everybody came here for their mail?"

Mr. Stamps wagged his head. "Not everybody," said he. The forest and meadow people do mostly, but how could all the fish people ever manage on dry land? Besides there are the fairies. Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, up in Buster Gust Land, couldn't come possibly, as he is too busy. So is Cap'n Pennywinkle, under the sea. We have to send their mail to them."

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

GOOD ADVICE

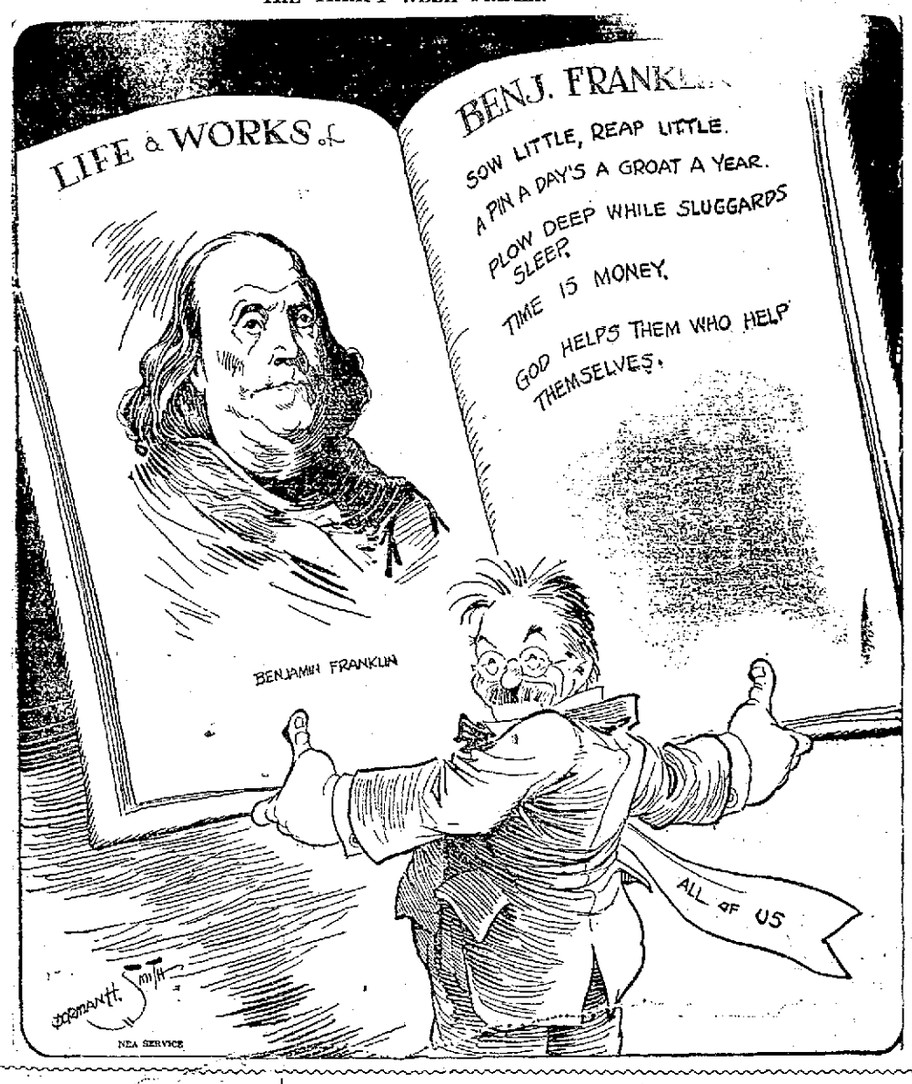
By Berton Braley

Spend for clothes and spend for food,
Spend for books and education;
Spend to keep your strength renewed,
Spend for healthy recreation;
But the rest—put it away.
Let the bank-account enfold it
Ready for a rainy day;
Save it, keep it, bank it, hold it!

Things are going well for you?
Times are daily getting better?
Fine! but keep this thought in view—
Poverty's a cruel fetter.
Guard against the days to come
When you need your cash and crave it.
Salt away a little sum,
Keep it, hold it, bank it, save it!

Age can have no terrors for
Those who save the bright sesterces;
When the wolf sniffs round the door
Folks who heeded these here verses
Need not worry. (I myself
Spent my wad, in waste I sank it)
Still I sing, "Retain your pelf—
Hold it, keep it, save it, bank it!"

THE THRIFT WEEK PRIMER



Be Thrifty

Veteran Succeeds by Plan Urged During Thrift Week

By Capt. James W. English

Who started with $50 after the Civil War and worked his way up until, at 89 he is millionaire head of a chain of leading banks.

ENGLISH

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 17.—I knew the post-war days would be rough and I put every cent I could make and scrape into the army. After my discharge I worked hard, and a little of what I earned I saved. It was mighty little, but I did it every week; and soon I began to see how even a little money, thriftily saved, could be turned over in business.

Thrift taught me business judgement, and business judgement enabled me to make progress.

Thrift is the greatest asset a person can have. With it, success is certain. Without it, success is usually impossible.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

KATE WARD, widow of
DAN WARD, living with her father,
JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor,
CHINATOWN ALICE, who claims Dan as father of her child,
DOROTHY. A few evenings later their dog,
MONK, leads Kate and her father to a lonely spot where they find an unconscious man. They carry him home and when he has recovered he gives his name as JAMES LATHAM. He falls in love with Kate, who asks him to take her to the laundry of SING LOY, with whom Alice lives, to offer the latter her friendship. Alice, however, does little but weep.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Kate felt helpless before the tears of Chinatown Alice. Here was a grief she could not hope to comfort. She didn't understand it. She was mute in the presence of it.

Softly she stole out of the laundry and sought refuge in the roadster awaiting at the curb.

"Please—let's start back right away," she said to James Latham.

"You need some lunch first," was the reply. And then, as Latham looked more closely at her face:

"What is it little girl? Something has happened?"

"I can't talk about it just now," quietly.

And James Latham let the matter rest there until after they had lunched and were well on their way out of the city.

"Lady Fair, don't you feel that you can tell me now?" he said. "Sometimes two can think things out better than one—and I'd like to feel that I could be that much a part of your life. I'd like to know that you felt that you could depend on me for some few little things at least."

"It's hard to tell you, Jimmy lad," Kate answered, "there's so much to say and yet so little to say."

"I know—I know," meditatively. "Such are the things that trouble us most and eventually break our spirits—those tangible worries which we can't exactly account for.

"Tell me, Kate." There was something of a command in the tone.

And Kate told him. Beginning at the place where Dan left off life, she took up the thread of the story. She told of Alice, of Dorothy, on down to the last visit to the laundry of Sing Loy. Only her premonition did she omit mentioning. She hadn't the courage to tell of that!

James Latham didn't interrupt. And when Kate finally ceased speaking he was silent for a space, guiding the car along the moonlit road at a rapid rate.

"Find out why Alice wanted a sum of money so badly just now," he said at length, "and you'll have the whole story."

"And I should say," Kate was speaking, "find out why Alice cried and the secret of everything will be out."

"There is some emotional cause back of almost everything a woman does," continued Kate. "I'm not speaking of flappers, of girls in the glow of early romance, of superficial, affected women. I mean, Jimmy, sane, sensible mothers and wives and business women.

"Women have always depended upon their emotions and intuition more than their brains. Their intuition is like a wireless searching the future. Their brain records the message. Their emotions temper their course of action.

"There was something back of Alice's tears—Jimmy, something sincere—something fine," Kate said.

THRIFT BRINGS PROSPERITY

Thrift Means Keeping Up Not Catching Up

Did you ever notice how easy it is to run short of money? Did you ever figure out what causes it?

It is the double standard of personal finance.

Money comes in according to your earning power and goes out according to your spending power.

That's all wrong. Let your earning power decide the out-go as well as the income. Then you will be able to keep up—you won't have to catch up—and you will be able to save.

What Is Your Viewpoint?

Too many look on Thrift as a system of self-discipline, self-denial, and "doing without."

This is the wrong idea, entirely. Thrift is not giving up what you want. It is one of the best methods known for getting what you want.

What is your viewpoint? Think it over. If it's wrong, change it. Then it will be easier for you to save.

The Art of Applied Thrift

Thrift must be studied. It stands high and is a most necessary item in the post-graduate course we are all trying to master—success. Like every other useful knowledge, it has a cash value when applied.

Thrift is the art of saving by careful spending—the act of buying whenever necessary and saving whenever possible. Thrift is applied wisdom.

The savings pass book is the text book of thrift. You will invite prosperity for yourself by joining our class of get-ahead savers.

You Boys and Girls

Do U find it hard to save a nickel or a dime or a quarter? It is, just as long as you carry it in your pocket and see things you THINK you want, but don't. No piece of money is safe as long as you carry it about with you.

Suppose you drop in and let us show you our new banks for saving,—baseballs that look so much like the real thing that they fool the wisest, except under close inspection,—attractive little clocks you can keep in your room and that say to you as they tick off the hours, "Time to save! Time to save!"

Come in and get one before you let any more pennies and dimes and quarters and the like slip through your fingers without leaving a thing behind them worth while.

"It isn't what you Make that makes you rich, It's what you save!"

That Holiday Budget

The inevitable expense of Christmas shopping generally is a strain on the family budgets for December and January.

But it shouldn't be! The comfortable and satisfactory way to care for the Christmas budget is to distribute the expense throughout the year. Our Christmas Savings Plan makes it easy.

Now is the time to come in and arrange for next year's Christmas budget on a systematic monthly basis. Miss Bessie Edwards will be glad to explain all the details.

AFTER A SNOWSTORM

They are not fair, the city knows—
Her brick fronts set in endless rows,

Stark, weatherbeaten, dingy lanes,
Of brick walls, sodden after rains.

But in their Cinderella dress
They stand forth in loveliness.

An east wind blows; the light snow sifts
Night-long in whirling gusts and drifts;

By morn a snowy mantle clings
Upon unloved, unlovely things.

And nothing lovelier could be
Than those brick fronts etched frostily.

Roofs, windows crowned with drifts of white,
White sills where sparrows fled last night!

Against the dull face of the brick
Caressing flakes cling, white and thick.

"Dear ugly walls," they seem to say,
"We've come to make you fair today."

—Frances Crosby Humlet.

Good Manners

Sometimes important work or an appointment make it practically impossible to entertain a chance visitor.

But the visitor having once been told that the house's mistress is in almost nothing can justify the latter's failure to see the guest for at least a moment. She may explain matters and excuse herself after extending a greeting, but she must not send a message by another.

Her presence is required, if for no other reason than to make the situation clear to the caller.

DODGE BROTHERS
MOTOR CAR

Winter never fails to bring this car renewed praise.

It is because the starting system and carburetor seem to be almost immune from cold weather troubles. The response is prompt, even on the coldest mornings.

The cord tires, with their safety tread, are also particularly desirable in winter. They not only act as a safeguard against skidding, but greatly reduce the possibility of having to change tires under disagreeable weather conditions.

Close fitting curtains, which open with the doors, enable the owner to drive in comfort the whole year round.

STANOCOLA
Polarine
In Your Crank Case

Automobile construction has reached such a high point of efficiency that nearly any car you buy will give you good service if you take the right care of it.

Proper lubrication is, of course, the most essential thing to motor satisfaction—and remember always that the motor is the heart of the car. If the pistons and cylinder walls are lubricated with the right quality and the right weight of oil, you will have no bother or expense with either of the two great causes of trouble—friction and lost power.

Polarine is a motor oil made from the very heart of choicest crude petroleum, refined, filtered and purified so as to produce just the right "oiliness" for every motor. Made in four weights, "Medium"—"Heavy"—"Heavy X" and "Heavy XX." By following the chart of recommendations (which is on display at all Polarine dealers), you can be absolutely assured of getting the proper weight for your motor.

Thrift is the Turning Point

A year from now, What then? The same work, possibly for the same wages, the same house on the same street, the same feeling of restlessness and discontent because of lack of progress?

It was never intended that the days of our lives should be an incessant round of worries and anxieties. We are all entitled to leisure, to travel, to have good homes, to read good books, to hear good music, and to get a full measure of enjoyment out of life.

We can get it, too—if we stop all the little wastes and extravagances and practice THRIFT.

THRIFT means for countless men and women the turning point. When they begin to save they begin to succeed.

Opportunities that never before were dreamed of suddenly loom up and are taken advantage of, and ambitions that once seemed hopeless of achievement become fully realized.

A year from now, WHAT THEN? THRIFT and a comfortable Savings Account?

WHY THAT LAME BACK?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Middlesboro resident's example.

W. B. Chadwell, prop. shoe shop, 216 Lathbury St., says: "My kidneys were weak and irregular for years and my back bothered me dreadfully at times. No doubt the work I am doing has had a lot to do with bringing on the trouble. Sitting at the bench is hard on the back and kidneys. Sometimes I have had to pass the secretions often during the day and also at night. Doan's Kidney Pills have strengthened my kidneys and I have had but little trouble or a long time."

Price 60 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Chadwell had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SPENT FORTUNE IN SEARCH

"I spent $1,800 in 7 years treating with physicians, some specialists costing me $10 a visit, only to at last say that nothing could be done for me, that I had cancers or ulcers of the stomach. I suffered awful pains in my stomach, but after taking a few doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy these all disappeared and for 3 years am feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus form the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

SAVED SICK SPELLS

Black-Draught Found Valuable by a Texas Farmer, Who Has Known Its Usefulness Over 30 Years.

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than 30 years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out from here on Route 3.

"I am 43 years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught, and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel, or other powerful mineral drugs.

Be sure to get the genuine, Thedford's.

CYCLOPEDIA OF POLITICAL SCIENCE
RAILWAYS
By Bruce Steese
Of all the factors that have contributed during this century to the growth of wealth, to the increase of material comfort, and to the diffusion of information and knowledge, the railway plays the most prominent part. It has widened the field for the division of employments; it has cheapened production, it has promoted exchange, and has facilitated intercommunication. In its aggregate, it represents a larger investment of capital than any other branch of human activity, and the service that it renders and has rendered to society is—both from industrial and commercial points of view, greater than is rendered by any other single service to which men devote their activities.

RAILROAD SERVICE VITAL TO THE WORLD'S PROGRESS

The importance of American railroads to the health, wealth and happiness of every reader of this newspaper was clearly demonstrated during the period of government control, when the exigencies of war made necessary the curtailment of certain privileges and advantages to the traveling and shipping public.

Realization of this condition has happily changed the attitude of the public towards the railroads of America, and the increasing tendency towards fair-minded consideration of the railroads' problems has wrought mutual benefits with the promise of still greater co-operation in the future.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, as the great highway of traffic and travel through the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and one of the strongest links in the American chain of railroads, renders both a sectional and general service of greatest importance.

You will be interested in reading above quotation from the Cyclopedia of Political Science.
